Aeolian 1952

Inside G. H. S.

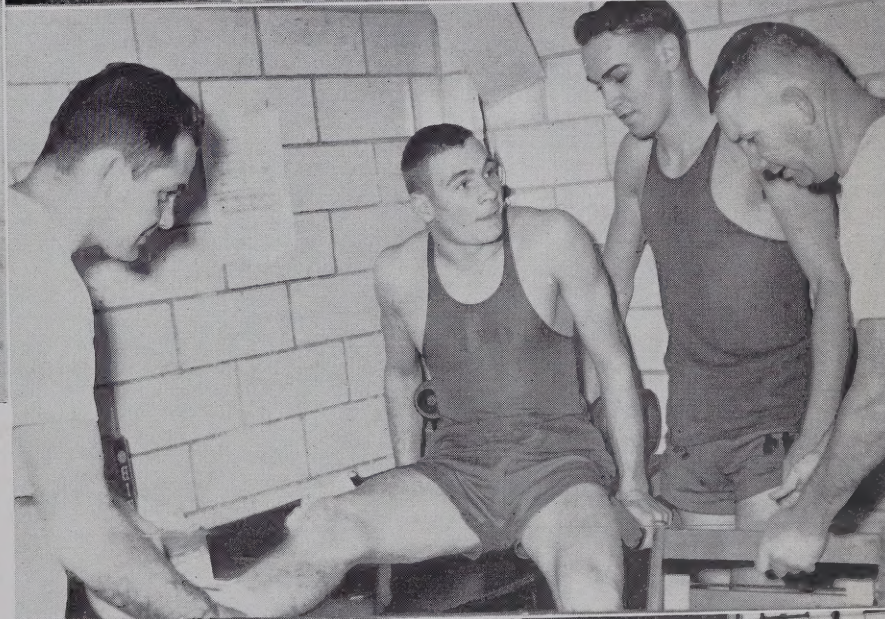

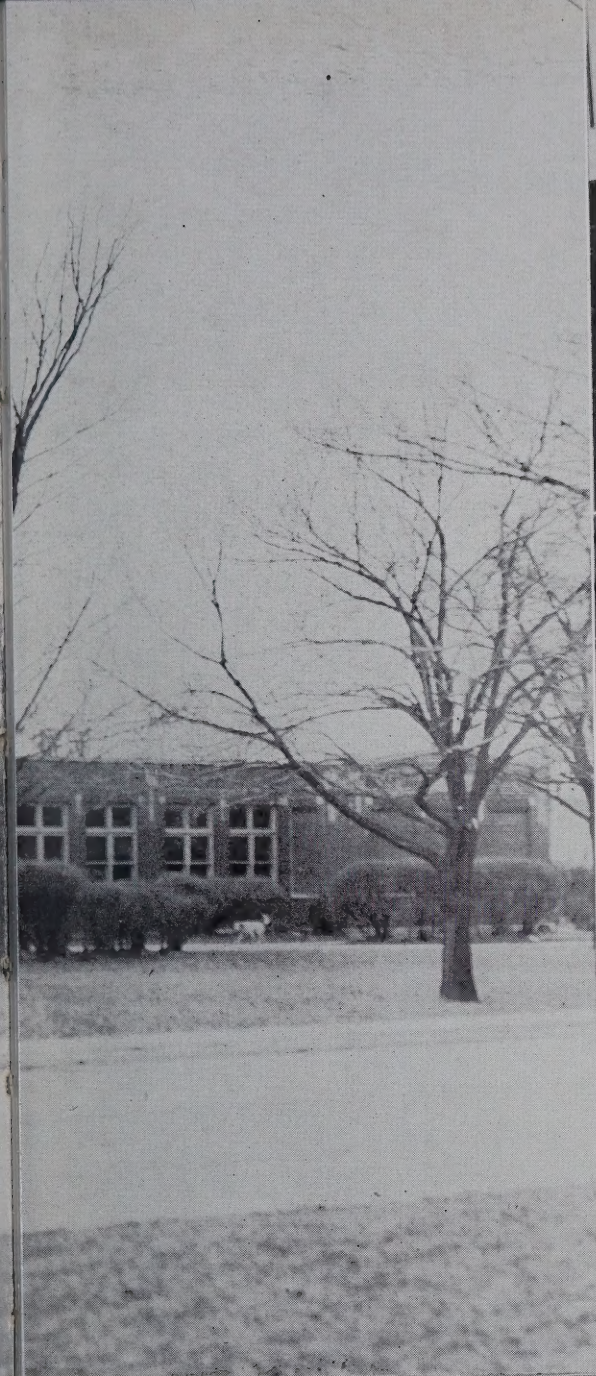

This Aeolian contains a record in pictures and words of the activities of the students of Garrett High School for the year 1951-52.

Through the patience and understanding of the members of the faculty, the graduating class is better prepared to face and conquer their problems. And also under the guidance of the faculty the underclassmen are preparing themselves for their long awaited goal, to be a senior.

Perhaps the memories that will remain the longest are those of our various social activities. In making our social affairs a success, all have learned the value of co-operation, and to be able to get along with each other. Every individual possesses a special talent, and activities provide an outlet for these talents. It is said that, "All work and no play will make Johnny a dull boy." Activities help to offset this in our school life.

Comparatively few students participate in the field of sports, but both participants and on-lookers have instilled into their minds the principle of clean living, fair play, and sportsmanship. Formation of good habits through training for sports tends to educate students to clean living, loyalty, courtesy, and good fellowship. Physical education contributes in a large measure to the spirit and morale of the school.

It is our hope, as seniors, that this book will present to our fellow students and to the interested people of our community, a comprehensive picture of our various high school activities. We also wish that this Aeolian will help the seniors to retain the cherished memories of their high school days.

Mr. Minniear is a graduate of Liberty Center High School, and received his B. Pd. degree from Tri-State Teachers College, his B. S. degree from Ball State Teachers College, and his M.S. degree in Education from Indiana University.

Our Superintendent has taken an active part in civic organizations and is a Lions Club past president. He was also on the board of control of the IHSAA for eleven years.

Principal

John E. Flora

The activities of our high school are directed by Principal John E. Flora, who is completing fifteen years at Garrett High School. In keeping with our philosophy of giving an educational foundation to every student according to individual abilities and interests, study is continually supplemented with practical experience and opportunities gained through participation in extra-curricular activities. The coordination of all these numerous school events keeps Mr. Flora's office a busy place. Parents, teachers, and pupils all receive cooperation and understanding from our principal and those in the school office.

Mr. Flora has a B. A. degree and an M. S. degree from Indiana University.

Senior History

If one would have peeked through the keyhole and taken a good look at G.H.S. activities four years ago, he would have found the graduating class of 1952 adapting themselves to new teachers, new friends, and new experiences. Since that time, the class of '52 has become a part of Garrett High, a part that will live on even though its members have graduated.

In their sophomore year, the class of '52 broke the tradition of buying class sweaters in the senior year. As sophs, they sported scarlet and black class sweaters, the first class to do so in the history of G.H.S.

True to custom, the '52-ites became money makers in their junior year. Not a football or basketball game went by without a junior peddling candy, cokes, and popcorn. As a result, they went into their senior year with a very comforting balance, one that has made possible the use of better and more expensive methods in yearbook production.

Led by President Robert Grimes, Vice-President Carolyn Michael, Secretary Gwenn Grogg, and Treasurer Artie Hopkins, seniors were determined to make their last year their best year. They found time to choose name cards and announcements, pose for the camera, present "Room for One More," edit the Aeolian, attend senior-honored parties, thoroughly henpeck the juniors, and finally graduate.

The Class of 1952 appreciates what G.H.S. has done for them, the education they received, the friends they made, and the satisfaction attained from possessing a diploma. Wherever seniors go, they will remember life inside G.H.S.

Class of '52 Prophecy

It's Homecoming Day at G.H.S.
In the year of 2002,
Only fifty years have passed
Since graduation for me and you.

The first to walk the halls again
Is Mary Lou Hillegass,
As a lady admiral
She wears a lot of brass.

A mountain climber is Carolyn Schurr,
Mt. Rushmore's a second home for her.
Pete Treesh zooms in aboard his jet,
He hasn't reached the moon as yet.

Barbara Moss is a ballet dancer,
On her toes she's quite a prancer.
When "Frankie" Dennis croons a tune,
All the teens are known to swoon.

A Mexican bull fighter is Dona Myers,
Of fighting bulls she never tires.
Elbert Chittenden is still the big joker,
Even while he's a stock exchange broker.

Margaret Prickett is a mechanic for fun,
But she must be good! The motors run!
Orator Hays speaks with imagination,
On what is becoming to the younger generation.

Thelma Bartels is a sports commentator,
Basketball players all fight to date her.
A thoughtful philosopher is Harding (Dick),
But he still doesn't know what makes females tick.

That's Gwenn Grogg over there on the horse,
She lassos her dates as a cowgirl, of course.
Tom Jackson really put on some weight,
He's the circus fat man at this date.

Jeannie Harner edits "Esquire,"
All the jokes she does inspire.
M. Griffin declares that organ grinding's his call,
He made his debut at Carnegie Hall.

Artie Hopkins went to college,
She's a bunion specialist through her knowledge.
Bro Roberts developed a love for art,
Now he designs dungarees so smart.

A second Valentino is Dick Bowlby,
On the stage he loves quite nobly.
Shirley Koepke now explores,
To her the Mars men open their doors.

Equipped with thermometers is Brumbaugh, the doc,
To pay for his bills much goods go in hock.
A female mortician is Kathy Hoyer,
Any living human does annoy her.

Madeline Miller runs a home for stray cats,
And will accept (at their own risk) rats.
Tom Diederich is a bowling champeen,
Behind trophies and bowling balls he may be seen.

Howard Nort for opera does sing,
When he hits high notes your ears will ring.
Betty Cleland is a hot-rod driver,
Watch out, pedestrians, if you'll be a survivor.

A flea circus barker is Keith Rugman,
To make people watch, he has to slug them.
Betty Weimer is a hat-check girl,
When she smiles your head will whirl.

A fine lady sheriff is Joyce Getts,
She catches the crooks who place those bets.
Bernie Meyers bets on races,
When he loses he makes such faces!

Carol Miser works for missions,
For their good she signs petitions.
A lonely hermit is Jack Lumm,
Flirting girls made him run.

Harold Deihl works as an umpire,
From batted balls he'd rather retire.
Bob Grimes is a shark at pool,
You mean, for this he went to school?

Fay Christlieb is famous for her art,
Of repairing another's broken heart.
A man of distinction in Feagler (Jack),
He's a distinguished guy as he drives his hack.

Sharlie Shull just loves to act,
For that art she has the knack.
Jack Williams designs ouija boards,
When there's a shortage, he'll have hoards.

Mary Jo Nielsen enjoys the chats,
As she sells her customers hats.
Bill Loomis his success attains,
When he invented a machine to make brains.

Tuffy Mossberger is a chef,
To indigestion her ears are deaf.
Bonnie Kees does the hula,
Her famous dancing brings the moola.

Duke Harper politically ran for president,
Now of the White House he's a resident.
Rita Hopkins raises frogs,
She sells their skins for 'gator togs.

A city slicker is Joe Krider,
But he still likes the country's cider.
Shirley Fuller's a tax collector,
Tax evasion nearly wrecked her.

A diplomat is Violet Shipe,
She always knows when the time is ripe.
Pat Sparks raises bees and honey,
From this job she's made much money.

Barbara Lankard makes cream cheeses,
Now she eats as much as she pleases.
Donna Jeanne Rose is in the deep sea game,
To catch a mer-man is her aim.

A lady barber is Thais Ervin,
She's a good hair whacker, that's for certain.
Carolyn Simpson designed a new skipping rope,
To keep people jumping is her hope.

Ike Warfield is a referee,
At tournaments he's on a spree.
Sue Michael is the mayor of Garrett,
To do this job is indeed a merit!

What am I, you ask?
Well, I a'm a prophet,
And since you mentioned it,
I'd better stop it!

Juniors

During the past school year you couldn't go through GHS without seeing a busy Junior whether selling candy and cokes or meeting with their sponsors to plan the Junior-Senior Banquet.

If you were to look through the keyhole of room 14, you might have caught a glimpse of the ever busy Juniors, slaving away on preparations for the banquet, honoring the great god Neptune. All during the school year the Juniors worked for the time when there would be no more need for closed doors and peeking through keyholes—the evening when they would disclose all the glory and significance of the Junior-Senior Banquet.

The unique dances the Juniors sponsored for after-games fun had revealed to the Seniors long before banquet time that it would be a success if put on in such original manner. They were not disappointed.

The Juniors were guided on their way through GHS by their officers: Sam Easterday, president; Kaye La Follette, vice president; Mary Kay Hollis, secretary; and Jo Ann Baldwin, treasurer.

Here we get a peek at the family "resuscitating" (applying artificial respiration, to you) the turtle.

Joey looks on, as Janie, Poppy, and Teensie perform the operation. Mother watches the proceedings while Trot consults the dictionary.

Peeking again, we find Betty looking on in awe as George tries vainly to subdue Jimmy John with the help of Mr. Biddle and Miss Winston.

Here are the chairmen of the production. Artie Hopkins, business manager; Dona Myers, publicity; Maynard Griffin, stage chairman; and Carolyn Schurr, properties chairman.

"Room for One More" --

This was the stage production in which the Bernhardt and the Barrymores of the class of '52 took part on April 3-4.

The story was of a wife and husband, who, although they had children of their own, always seemed to find room in their homes and in their hearts for one more "stray" boy or girl. The difficulties they met and their solutions gave the audience an evening of entertainment not soon forgotten.

The cast included: Donna Jeanne Rose, as Mother; Harold Deihl, as Poppy; Richard Bowlby, as Joey; Pat Sparks, as Teensie; Irma Diederich, as Janey; Jean Harner, as Trot; Evan Roberts, as Jimmy John; Shirley Koepke, as Mrs. Biddle; Patrick Lonergas, as George; Sharlie Shull, as Betty; and Barbara Lankard, as Miss Winston. Betty Weimer played a minor part as the rescued woman.

The climax toward which we Juniors-of-'51 worked all year came May 4, 1951, at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. Each brave and squaw had "heap good time" at "Indian Love Call."

Long remembered, too, will be the Junior-Senior Picnic of 1951 and all the dreary drabness of the day. Despite the gloom, however, the juniors and seniors enjoyed themselves. Some were even brave enough to go swimming!

Student Council

The Student Council, composed of high-quality students chosen from each home room, is advised by Mr. Flora, the principal. The purpose of this organization is that of bringing out and analyzing student problems and suggesting solutions for these problems.

During the basketball season, under the leadership of the Student Council, the cheering section was moved from the south side of the gym to the north side, behind the team.

Several talent programs of recent years, including the one this year featuring band contestants, originated in the Student Council.

Yes, inside G.H.S., we see the Student Council seeking information and making recommendations for the betterment of the student body.

Y-Teens

Taking a look at Y-Teens "Inside G. H. S." we see this year an excellent group of junior and senior girls. The Y-Teens, affiliated with the YWCA, has tried to fulfill its purpose, "to build a fellowship of girls devoted to realizing those ideals to which they are committed by their faith as Christians."

"Evening in Paris" was the theme of the semi-formal dance sponsored by the Y-Teens. Two sandwich sales and a bake sale were the money-makers for the club.

Jean Harner was the girl selected to attend the Y-Teen Camp near New Trenton, Indiana, last summer.

Lending a helping hand were the officers: Kaye LaFollette, devotions; Sharlie Shull, song-leader; Artie Hopkins, treasurer; Joan Rimmell, secretary; Carolyn Michael, president; Shirley Cramer, vice-president.

Blue Triangle

Taking another peek through our G. H. S. keyhole, we find the little sister to the Y-Teens, the Blue Triangle Club.

The Blue Triangle Club is made up of freshman and sophomore girls. This year they again sponsored the annual Christmas and greeting-card sale which was a huge financial success. The Triangles set a record for making the most money ever made in a card sale. A clothing drive for the needy people of Korea was also sponsored in reply to a soldier's plea printed in the papers.

The annual Mothers' Tea was an occasion not soon forgotten.

The Triangles were ably guided through the year by: (seated) Barbara Busz, vice-president; Barbara Curie, president; (standing) Jeannene Moses, secretary; Sally Zimmerman, treasurer; Sharron Andrews, program.

Band

Our Garrett High School Band is composed of fifty-seven members, including the flag bearers and twirlers. This organization plays for numerous public functions, such as the annual Halloween parade, athletic games, concerts, and the band contests. In a district band contest held at New Haven, the band won a superior rating.

The band rehearses three days a week. There are several soloists from the band who perform at the solo and ensemble contest each year. The following three members represented us at the state contest: Rose Perry, clarinet solo; Shirley Koepke, trombone solo; Joan Rimmell, twirling.

Twirlers

"Variety is the spice of twirling" so say our twirlers. This year the girls were full of cute ideas to make their performances special and outstanding to the fans. It wasn't at all unusual for the spectators to see the girls as Indians, Cowboys, Sailors, and even as Valentines, prancing down the floor, batons twirling.

In a twirling contest held at Auburn and sponsored by the Band Association of Northern Indiana, Joan Rimmel took top honors with a first rating, while both Madeline and Marlene won second ratings.

All in all, the twirlers have really done things this year, depending on their own originality for their routines and steps.

And so, peeking through the keyhole, you're sure to see three very good twirlers!

Marlene Feick, twirler; Joan Rimmel, majorette; Madeline Miller, twirler.

Basketball 1951-1952

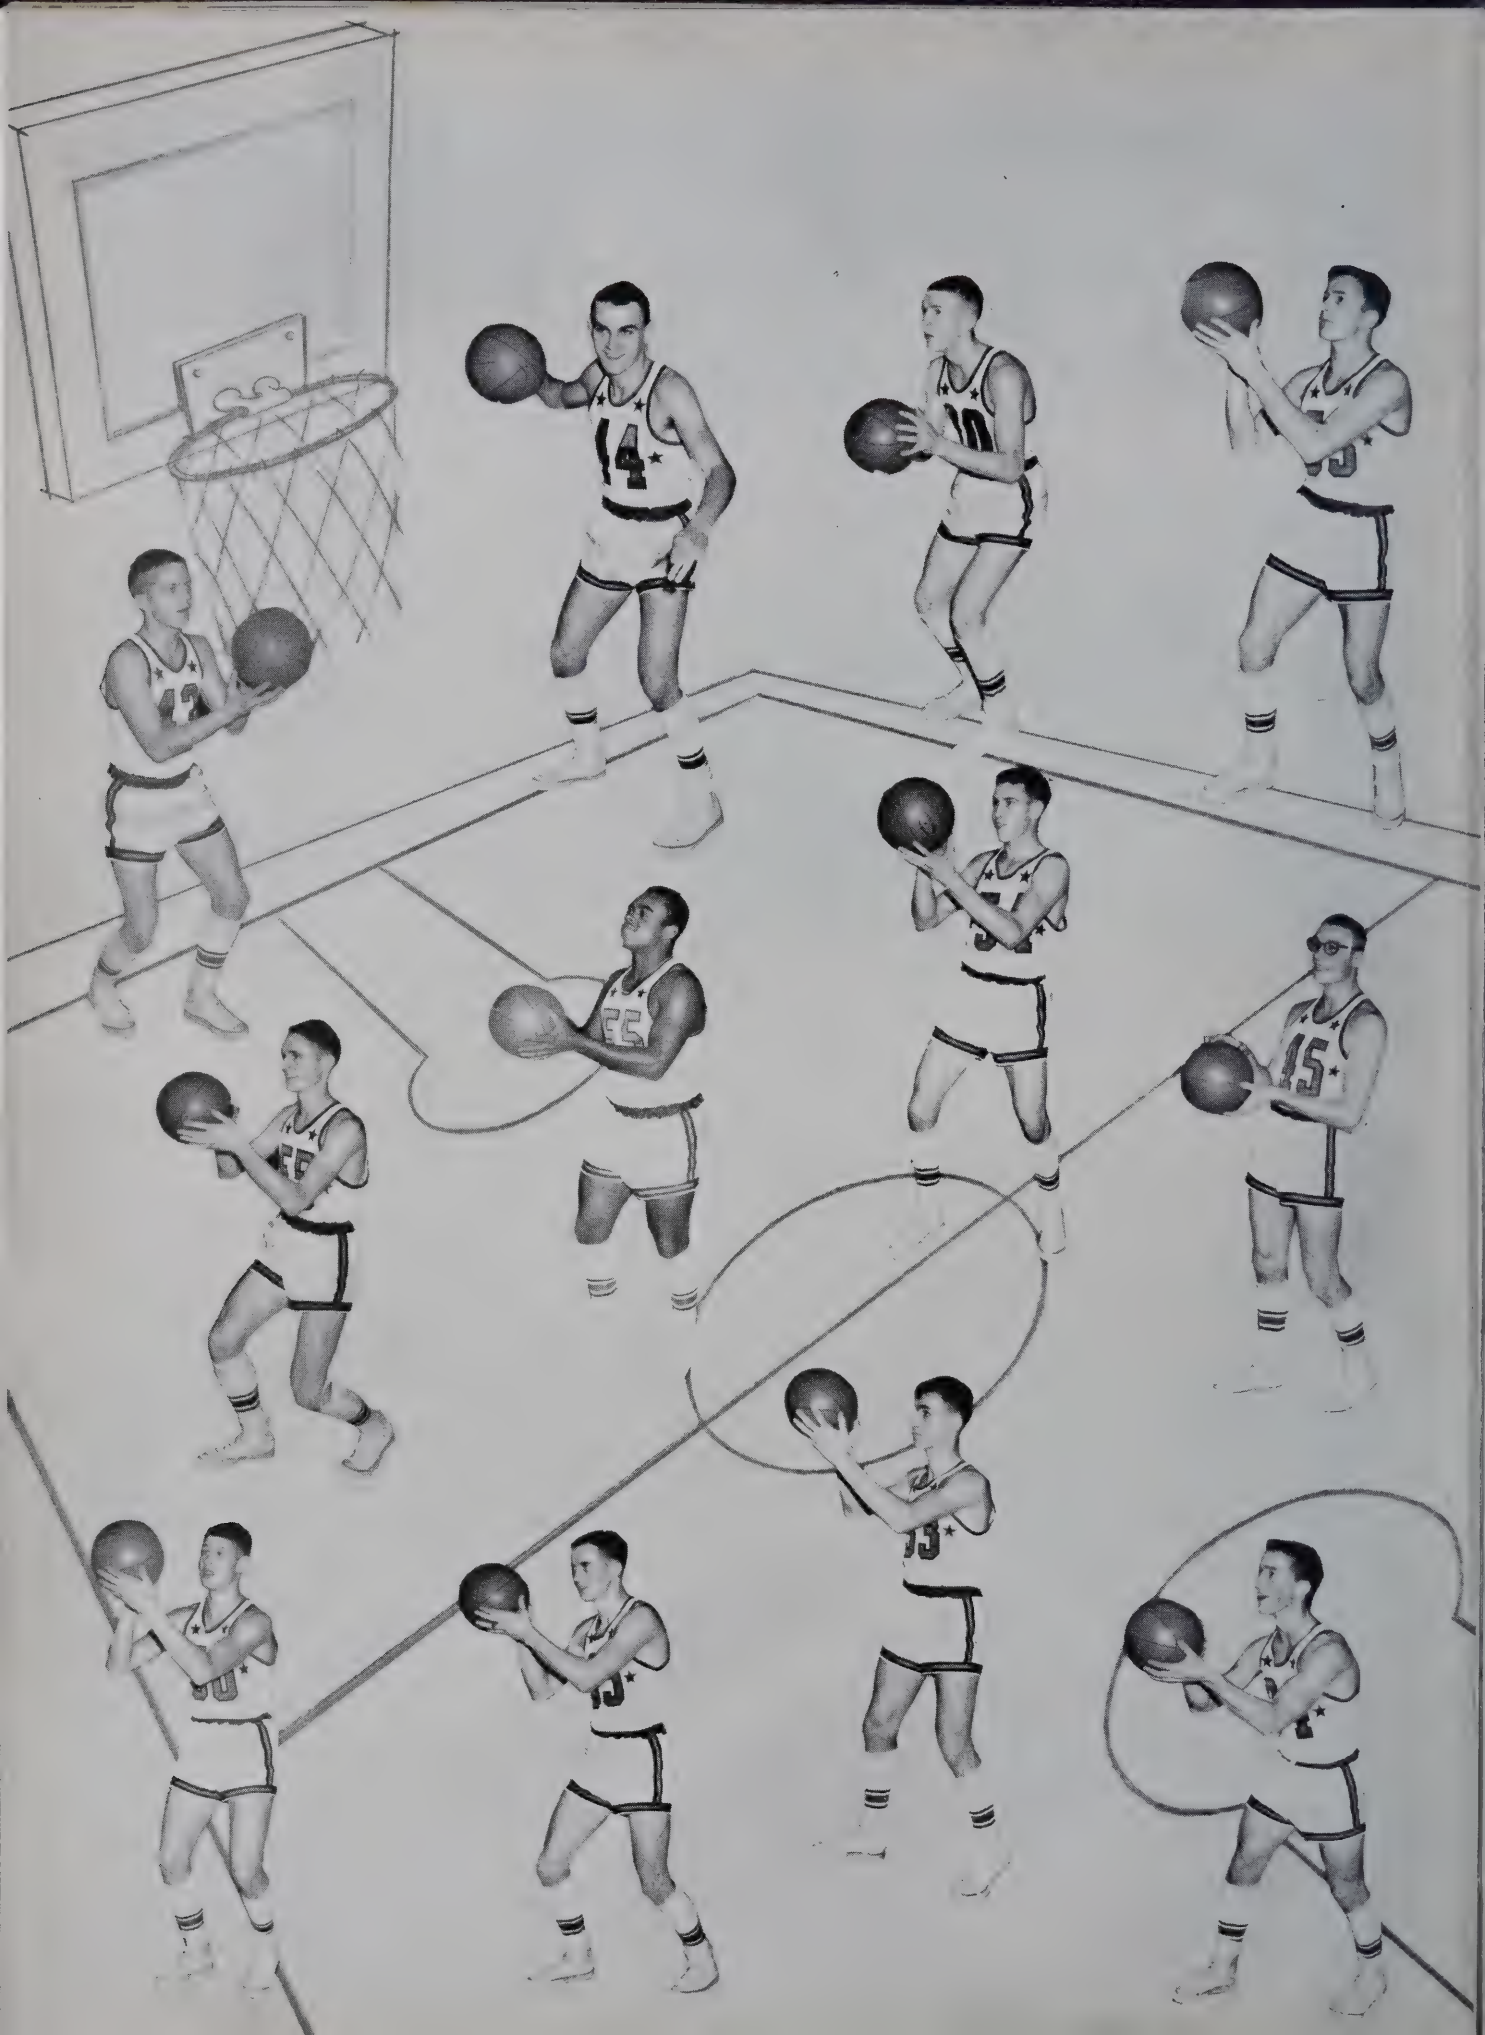

Taking a peek at the basketball campaign we find that although the figures in the "win" column weren't any too numerous, this 1951-52 basketball season was, in many ways, a success. An athletic campaign offers more to the students than just the winning or losing of the games.

Through the many sports, students strengthen their bodies, develop co-ordination, and many benefits which will be of inestimable value in later life. Regulation of habits and daily contacts with other members of a team tend to educate students to clean living, loyalty, courtesy, and good fellowship. In an athletic campaign players, fans, and coaches learn that it takes the cooperation of all to form a winning team.

In their first year at G.H.S., Mr. Dean and Mr. Capin have instituted an entirely new style of play; a style that after it is learned well enough makes for much more consistent winning. In this style a player plays possession ball, and tries to make every pass a good one. With underclassmen seeing a lot of action this season under this style of play, the prospects for coming seasons are bright.

It is the respect of its opponents for the good sportsmanship and keen contest spirit which it displays that is more valuable to a team than the most successful season.

In closing we wish to thank "our coaches," all the patrons of our team, and the high school for the support and encouragement which they always gave us.

G. A. A.

G. A. A. is composed of girls from grades nine to twelve, who meet in friendly combat to see who will reign supreme as champions in various fields of sports.

The main sports interest is basketball, with volley ball and softball filling in when the basketball season is over.

Captains for the 1951-52 basketball season were: Gloria Mossberger, Shirley Koepke, Patricia Sparks, Joyce Getts, Carolyn Schurr, and Betty Weimer.

Koepke's Cupcakes bested the other teams in the tournament, beating Carolyn Schurr's team by four points in the final game.

At the annual banquet held at the end of the basketball season awards were presented to:

Patricia Sparks—Best Sport
 Gloria Mossberger—Best Captain
 Shirley Koepke—High Scorer
 Artie Hopkins—Best Guard

Seniors who had been members for four years were presented charms to be worn on chains.

The all-star team which is chosen each year was composed of: Betty Weimer, Sally Zimmerman, and Barbara Curie—forwards; Reba Knapp, Carolyn Schurr, and Carolyn Simpson—guards.

All in all, the girls enjoyed a very beneficial year, gaining much from their associations with other girls and the friendly rivalry which is the spirit of Girls' Intramural.
